SAYS DEARDORFF FOUGHT WITH HIM

Sharrah Claims that Man, whom he Later Killed, Choked him in his Own Home. Testimony Becomes Sensational.

Oliver Sharrah, who is being tried for the murder of Peter Deardorff, was interrogated continuously this morning from the opening of Court until after eleven o'clock when the Court and attorneys adjourned to chambers.

He told of his intimacy with Deardorff throughout the summer, prior to Deardorff's death, and said he told Deardorff early in July that this talk concerning Mrs. Sharrah and Deardorff must cease. He said it nearly set him crazy. Deardorff responded, "If that is the case, I'll stay away. I don't want to make anyone crazy."

On July 5th, according to Sharrah's testimony, he went to Franklin county to work in the harvest fields and was employed there until July 23d or 24th. In the interim he made but two visits home. The next time he saw Deardorff was on July 31st. They came home together for a picnic, arriving at the Sharrah house about morning. This time Deardorff stayed at Sharrah's "a couple of hours."

The night of August 14th Sharrah next met Deardorff at Cashtown. He again cautioned Deardorff about the talk concerning him and Mrs. Sharrah. They spent the evening together and Sharrah, Albert Shultz, and Deardorff returned to the Sharrah home late that night. Upon their arrival Deardorff wanted to go into the house. Sharrah told him he could not and Deardorff replied, with an oath, "I'll do as I please." Thereupon he hit Sharrah, knocking him across the road and after Sharrah had fallen Deardorff jumped upon him and choked him. At this point Shultz interfered, pulling Deardorff away. Sharrah then told him never to come there again and Deardorff after swearing awhile, drove away.

Saturday night of the following week Sharrah and Deardorff again met at Cashtown and came home together. On their arrival about midnight, Sharrah called to his wife, who was in bed. She got up and told Sharrah one of the cows was sick. Deardorff insisted upon sitting in the yard to converse with Sharrah, who humored him until Deardorff lay on the ground and went to sleep, after which Sharrah went to the stable to see the sick animal. On his return to the house some time later he found rain was falling, and, pitying Deardorff, who was drunk, he dragged him onto the porch and finally in-doors. Shortly after this Deardorff became aroused and started after Mrs. Sharrah, who was in the room. She appealed to her husband to save her and he jumped between the two. "I told him," said Sharrah, "when he got her it would be over my dead body."

This was the most dramatic part of the day's testimony and Mrs. Sharrah, who was in Court with her four year old daughter, covered her face with her hands until the replies assumed a less intense feeling.

Deardorff's next move, according to Sharrah, was to grab him by the throat and say, "I'll choke the heart out of you." Freeing himself, Sharrah commanded Deardorff to leave the house and Deardorff replied, "I won't do no such a damn thing. You can't make me go. I have as good a right here as you have"; and lay down on the floor aside of the stove.

The Sharrahs then went to bed and left him on the floor. He was lying at the same place when they got up in the morning and remained at the house until about five o'clock that day, sleeping part of the while and when awake, cursing. About five o'clock Deardorff told Sharrah he was going and asked if he might leave a package he had brought there the evening before.

Sharrah's reply was, "Take everything with you when you go for this is your last trip. When a man comes into my own house and chokes me, I am through with him." "I will do as I please," Deardorff replied, but took all of his effects and departed.

Deardorff and Sharrah did not speak for some time after this fracas, the witness testified, although they were at this time both working on the state

GOT DEAD MAN'S CHRISTMAS FUND

Posed as his Widow and Had Check Cashed. Daughters Make Discovery and Warrant Follows. Her Excuse.

Margaret Dorsey, colored, was arrested Wednesday in Emmitsburg by Constable Eugene A. Alexander, charged with forging the name of William Fry to a Christmas Savings check, which she cashed at the Emmitsburg Savings Bank. She was held in the sum of $100 bail by Justice of the Peace H. C. Hull for the action of the grand jury.

She formerly was Fry's housekeeper. Last March the latter went to sleep on a couch while smoking a pipe. Hot ashes from the pipe set fire to the couch and Fry was not awakened until he was so badly burned that he had to be sent to a hospital for treatment. Several days later he died.

Some time previous, however, he joined the Christmas Savings fund at Frederick and paid in $9.00. After his death, it is charged, the Dorsey woman went to the bank and representing herself as his wife, was given a check for the amount. Later she secured a place as a domestic in a family in Emmitsburg and went there to live. A few days ago two daughters of Fry discovered that his savings account had been drawn by his housekeeper. A warrant was issued for her arrest and she was taken into custody by Constable Alexander. She claimed that she was entitled to the money for services rendered as housekeeper. She secured bail and was released.

TALKS HERE OF A WORLD PEACE

No Reasons why Nations Cannot be Governed by Same Laws as Individuals in Matter of Settling Disputes.

That a Supreme Court of Nations should be formed to settle all international disputes and thus bring to an end the possibility of another great war was the idea advanced in Brum Chapel Thursday evening by Dr. George W. Nasmyth, a representative of the American Branch of the League to Enforce Peace. It will be remembered that this organization was formed last June at a conference in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, with Ex-President Taft as its president.

Dr. Nasmyth explained the aims and methods advocated by the League, showing the purpose to substitute a Supreme Court of Nations, instead of resorting to war, to settle international disputes. Each nation in the League would be required to submit its case to this Supreme Court and wait a year for its settlement before resorting to arms. If it should declare war without doing this the declaration would be taken as against the world instead of merely the nation named, and all commercial and diplomatic intercourse with it would cease. The lecturer claimed that this would lead the defiant nation to see that its course would be futile and hence would not contest.

Cases were cited by the lecturer to show that disputes among large civil communities had been settled time and again by arbitration of this kind and he was confident that it could be made successful among nations. It needed only the hearty support of the better class of the people to make it effective and thus take the matter of declaring war out of the hands of a few autocrats and make the relations among the different nations democratic.

He put forward these proposals as pointing out "the road along which the nations must sooner or later travel in their efforts to establish a just and stable peace and not as a complete and final plan." He felt that this was an opportune time to seek to unite the great mass of sentiment against war, for this sentiment will surely exist after the unparalleled slaughter now going on in Europe.

BLAME SICKNESS ON WITCHCRAFT

And this Man Threatens Trouble if Woman Does not Remove Spell. Nearby Maryland District Gives Story.

Across the line in Frederick County the influence of the "black magic", or the supernatural, is still flourishing in some households. Virgil Eaton, clerk in the James W. LeGore store, LeGore, is now under arrest on a charge of having assaulted Mrs. Jennie Staub, after intimating that she "had cast a spell" over his seven months old child.

Eaton is said to have rushed to the Staub home several days ago and said, according to Mrs. Staub:

"If you don't take the spell off my baby by 6 o'clock to-night, prepare to die." This is what Mrs. Staub told Justice of the Peace Marion C. Miller when she asked for a warrant for Eaton.

While Eaton is not an outright believer in witchcraft, in a conversation with several residents of LeGore and that vicinity he intimated that there might be something in it. Trouble began to brew when the Eaton baby became ill. The child has been steadily losing weight for several weeks.

When medicines failed to overcome the sickness of the child, Eaton began to cast about for causes. It was then that thoughts of the supernatural, such as witchcraft began to pass through his mind. At first it is reported Eaton was not convinced. But the more he thought over it, and the history of black magic, the more convinced he became that there might be something in it.

Then he called on Mrs. Staub. It is understood that Eaton did not actually strike Mrs. Staub. He merely went to the home and asked her to "break the spell," if she had any such power. The wrangle followed that statement.

ALL TRUE, TOO

Gettysburg Lost a Fine One Says Colorado Paper.

A recent issue of the "Denver Times" contains a fine write-up of Earl Howard, star pitcher with the Gettysburg College and Gettysburg Blue Ridge teams last year. It bears a five column heading, contains two excellent photographs, and tells of his principal accomplishments of the last two years. In commenting upon "Howdy" it says:

"Maryland and Pennsylvania papers have been filled with stories of the youngster's prowess on the pitching mound, and it is doubted if there was ever a man who wore a Denver uniform who has had as many good things said about him."

"Howard was recommended by a big league scout, and his record surely indicates that he is all that, was claimed of him, Howard is sure that he will make good in Class A company, in fact he believes that he can measure up to the requirements in the majors if given a chance."

EXTENSIVE PLANS

The improvements are expected to cost in the neighborhood of $2500 of which $1000 has been secured. No work will be done until the entire amount has been provided for.

The Lincoln and Burns pews will be allowed to remain in the auditorium while the present pews will be used elsewhere in the church. It is planned to have the new seating arrangement with only three aisles instead of four as at present.

DOUBT LEGALITY OF NEW BOARD

Before Adjourning State Agriculturists Hear Some Argument. Act on Various Matters, Making Suggestions.

The State Board of Agriculture has had some questions raised over the legal standing of the new Commission of Agriculture.

At the meeting Thursday former mayor E. O. Weimer, of Lebanon, demanded to know if all acts which might conflict with the legality of the commission had been repealed and said that he wanted the status of the board and the commission settled by the Attorney General and the Economy and Efficiency Commission to look into the business end of the two bodies.

There was not a very large attendance of members at the time and after some remarks about raising the question just then the resolution was tabled on motion of George G. Hutchinson, of Warrior's Mark, who scouted the idea that the commission meant the end of the board.

There was also some sentiment expressed about turning over the farm advisory and farmers' institute service to State College, but it did not get to a vote.

Members of the board seemed to have the idea that the board and commission were in conflict and a bill will be drawn to have the Legislature settle the question.

The board Thursday afternoon passed resolutions indorsing the State constabulary and recommending an increase in the force, asking for larger appropriations for the Department of Agriculture and State College, calling for the extension of farmers' institutes and similar work, for the amendment of the State Game laws to provide for a closed season for quail and fixing the deer shooting season for the period between November 1 and November 15.

KILLED BY LOCOMOTIVE

Friend's Effort to Save him Proved Unavailing.

Benjamin Stouffer Frantz, of Waynesboro, was struck by a Western Maryland Railway freight locomotive Thursday morning and instantly killed. Mr. Frantz was on his way to one of the Waynesboro shops and was accompanied by M. Klein. When the two went to cross the tracks of the railway near a curve, while it was yet dark, the freight train bore down upon them. Mr. Frantz, who was slightly deaf, had stepped upon the track, and Mr. Klein, observing the headlight of the rapidly approaching engine, caught hold of him and endeavored to pull him back.

According to Mr. Klein Mr. Frantz made one step backward and then plunged forward and was immediately struck and knocked down and dragged a considerable distance up the track. When picked up he was dead. Mr. Frantz is survived by his widow and one son, Mark Frantz.

HAS FAITH IN QUICK REMEDY FOR CATARRH

The People's Drug Store Guarantees

That Hyomei Will Relieve The Worst Cases of Catarrh in Gettsburg.

When one of the most reputable

pharmacies in Gettysburg guarantees

that a medicine will produce benefit or they will refund the money, it speaks volumes for the merits of that remedy. It is in this way that The People's Drug Store is selling Hyomei,

the treatment that has helped so many cases of both acute and chronic catarrh in Gettysburg and vicinity.

Hyomei is not a pill nor is it a spray or a lotion that must be rubbed in. It is an oil, the air of which you just breath in your nose, throat and lungs

by the aid of an inhaler that comes with every outfit. Benefit will usually be seen from the very first treatment.

This air destroys all germ life in the air passages and lungs and enriches

and purifies the blood with the additional ozone it supplies. It banishes catarrh of the head and throat and respiratory organs. Wherever these mucous membranes contain catarrhal

germs, there Hyomei will do its work of healing.

The complete Hyomei outfit is inexpensive and includes an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks' treatment.

Remember that The People's Drug Store

will refund your money.

road and saw each other every day. Sharrah said he told Deardorff in September that he would have to "straighten up the talk about my wife, and leave the country, for I am going to get a warrant to have you arrested," but he was not definite about the time of this conversation.

Their next association was on the night of September 11th. Sharrah had been to Cashtown on the previous Saturday evening to order a keg of beer for the 11th. At the time he ordered it Deardorff was in the hotel and heard the order given. During the week Deardorff asked Sharrah to "let him in on the beer." Sharrah agreed and they started to take it home in Deardorff's team on the night of September 11th. On the way up the 'pike they left the beer alongside a fence and went to the Valley picnic. At the point where Sharrah started to tell of their return from the picnic his testimony became somewhat clouded and Court adjourned to the Judge's chambers.

Sharrah told Thursday of repeated requests to the man whom he later killed to stay away from his home, of Deardorff's failing to take any heed of these requests, and of Deardorff's being found frequently at the Sharrah place.

Asked how often he had told Deardorff to stay away from his house, Sharrah said he did not think it would be an exaggeration to say a thousand times. In reply to these requests or commands Deardorff would simply smile and say "I don't have to go," "You can't keep me away," or "I have as much right here as you have."

The trouble between Sharrah and Deardorff had been a matter of less than a year, the witness said, and they had been on the best of terms before that time except for a quarrel about twelve years ago but that had been forgotten. Sharrah's wife and little daughter sat with him during the afternoon, the prisoner showing much affection in the little four year old girl to whom he talked frequently.

Other witnesses called during the afternoon were J. L. Hill Esq., who told of a charge being laid October 9 by Sharrah against Deardorff charging him with a serious offense. Charles H. Wilson who told of Sharrah's asking him on October 9, the day of the murder, why the warrant had not been served and of his (Wilson's) replying that he had been too busy but would attend to it the following Monday; M. F. Williams, who produced and explained photographs taken at the Sharrah home; and William Wilkinson, who told of repairing a revolver for Deardorff a number of times but could not say whether he had done it within the past year.

SMOKELESS, NOISELESS GUN

Navy to Test Invention, Believed to Be Operated by Compressed Air.

Plans of a dynamite gun said to be smokeless, noiseless and without recoil, the invention of Edward Ferguson of Baltimore, have been laid before the navy department. A test of the gun probably will be made at the Indian Head (Md.) testing grounds soon.

Ferguson began working on his invention several months before the European war began. It was complete and tried out last summer, when a steel lined, wire bound oak model was fired off. Crude as it was, it is said to have thrown a pound missile four miles.

The latest model is a twenty pounder, adjustable to hurl a dynamite bomb to distances up to twenty-two miles. It is believed that the gun is operated by compressed air.

AUSTRIA USES WOODEN SHOES

Dutch Footwear, Made Necessary by High Cost of Leather, Is Popular.

Wooden shoes are becoming popular in many parts of Austria, and, while unaccustomed to this kind of footwear the people, says the Reichspost of Neuhammer, "walk in them perfectly, and the children run and jump in them as though it were a real pleasure."

The high price of leather has brought about this change, and many factories in the villages of Furstenhut and Ausseggfeld are turning out large quantities of wooden shoes. The shoes are made from beechwood and pine and can be had at as low a price as 2 cents. They are said to be very warm.

URGES ECONOMY IN SUICIDE

Belgians Advised That They Will Find Hanging the Cheapest Way.

The following melancholy tale is transmitted by the Amsterdam correspondent of the London Express:

A man recently committed suicide in Boltsford, a small village near Brussels, by shooting himself.

The German military authorities promptly levied a fine of £250 (about $1,250) on the village because the suicide had dreamed in his possession.

The burgomaster of Boltsford has placarded the village with warnings to intending suicides begging them to do so by hanging or drowning, else the village will go bankrupt.

PARTY DIVIDED OVER PHILIPPINES

With Independence In Platform, Leaders Hesitate.

WOULD BE DANGEROUS STEP

To Engage Other Countries In Guaranteeing Neutrality Would Be Cause For War, Pointed Out Commins Wants Middle Course Between That Taken by Two Williams.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Jan. 28.—[Special.]—
"Democrats must recognize the eternal verities when they come into power," once remarked Tom Reed. He was speaking of the difference the party exhibited on the money question when I was in and out of power. The remark might be applied to the Philippine question.

In four national conventions the Democrats declared in unambiguous
terms for the independence of the Philippines. While in the minority in congress they have talked in favor of continued independence. Now they are in power and some of them want to carry on the pledge to the letter and turn the islands loose.

But here comes in Tom Reed's "eternal verities." There are other Democrats who recognize the fact that it will be a mighty dangerous experiment to release all control over the Philippines at the present time.

Would Involve More Trouble.
During the discussion of the Philippine bill Senator Poindexter pointed out that to engage with other countries in guaranteeing the neutrality of the islands would be a cause for war.

Senator Walsh of Montana spoke of the propositions which had been made so often to have the United States bind itself with other nations and use coercive measures to prevent a single nation going to war and asked what would be the effect.

"The only difference," said Poindexter,
"between that proposition and the one regarding the Philippines is that it is more extensive and there would be more opportunities for trouble."

Vino For the Philippines.
They finally put prohibition in the bill for the Philippines, but provide that wine and native drinks might be used. Vingo has been described as about the worst concoction that ever was mixed. The natives make it and work it off on the foreigners. Many of the thousands of cases of insanity among American troops who have been returned to this country from the Philippines have been traced to vino.

When Intervention Comes.
When intervention comes, as it must in time, it is just possible that the United States will be unable to establish peace and tranquillity throughout the island. It is quite possible, however, that outside of the mountains and isolated districts life and property can be made reasonably safe with a strong guard of United States soldiers in most of the central points.

The various bands of guerrillas and bandits have found a better living cur-rying the revolutions than they ever had before, and they are not going to subside right away. Under one leader or another they will continue to be marshalled until the United States takes control.

Public Buildings Promised.
Frank Clark of Florida contributed joy to a lot of congressmen recently
"Clark is chairman of the committee on public buildings, and he made a speech in which he denounced those who called the public building bill a "pork barrel" measure, and in other ways he showed that congress was not to be deterred from pursuing its course in regard to buildings. What caused joy among the members was the promise of Clark that they should have a public building bill this session. They are quite a number of men who want the public building bill passed before they give their assent to a big military program.

Stick In Their Claw.
Northern Democratic senators after expressing dissatisfaction with things as they are. "The three cabinet officers from Texas, not to say anything about the power which Colonel Edward M.
House wields in the administration
stick in our claw," was the remark of one of the senators from a northern state. "Some of our influential Democrats ask us why one state receives so much consideration and others are neglected, and we are unable to explain. It does not help us in the campaign we have to make this fall to re-elect the administration."

Between Two Williams.
Senator Cummins believes there is a middle ground for the majority. Discussing the great munitions profits and advocating government ownership of war making material, he said: "Somewhere between the armed camp of William of Germany and the open surrender of William of Nebraska there must be an honorable abiding place for a great nation which is prepared to lead the world toward peace, but will not submit to injustice nor indignity."

Senatorial Slang.
During the consideration of the Philippine bill an involved proposition was presented. "Will the senator please explain that provision," said Senator Vardaman of Mississippi. "It is as clear as mud to me."

Moral for Benders.
"The 'lend' of his boarding house saved the life of a Philadelphian who was trying to commit suicide."

As Old as They Feel.

They fell for the fox trot and tango last season.
But now these diversions are not up to date.
Our set doesn't do them, and that is the reason.
Our aged relations have learned how to skate.
Gliding with well balanced equilibration.
Gracefully over the surface they go.
Tinkled to death with a real recreation.
For dancing they found was a little too
old.

Grandma was seventy-one in November.
Great-uncle Ezra is seventy-two.
Grandpa declares that he will can remember.
His old days in college with Chauncey Depew.
You'd think that they all would be quietly waiting.
The summons that calls to the cloudy
beyond.
But not these old birds—they have all gone out skating.
They're kicking their heels up on Caf-fery's pond.

Leave to the schoolboy the chair by the chimney.
Let the young shrink from the snow and the cold.
But, while the blood can still tingle, by Jimmy.
Heartshades no longer shall shelter the
old.
Doctors may solemnly croak out a warning.
That death is abroad on the midwinter breeze.
But Caffery's pond's like a mirror this morning.
And death has no terrors for old folks like these!

AMERICANS IN WAR ZONE ARE HONORED FOR BRAVERY.

Decorations and Promotions Frequent,
but Names Are Withheld.

"Americans in the Foreign legion of the French army have taken part in some of the roughest fighting of the war," says an officer who has been in a position to watch their work from the beginning.

The Americans of the Foreign legion have distinguished themselves on many occasions, earning in one case an officer's stripes and in another the cross of the Legion of Honor, while many have earned the war cross.

"The annihilation of the foreign legion has been announced at different times by the Germans," the officer went on, "and even the American press has published experiences of the legion, stating that the American volunteers and other foreigners serving France have been wiped out."

"At an impressive review, however, which has just taken place at the front General Gillski presented to the Russian and Polish volunteers decorations conferred by Emperor Nicholas. The legionaries filed past in superb alignment, preceded by their flag, which is one of the few regimental banners decorated with the Legion of Honor. The men of the regiment showed none of the fatigue of sixteen months of the campaign. The veterans of Madagascar, Morocco and the American and other young volunteers presented the same soldierly bearing on parade as in action."

SOLDIER NEEDN'T PAY RENT.

British in France Declared to Be Under No Liability.

The British chamber of commerce is sues a note regarding rents payable by British subjects who have enlisted in the British army. It says:
"In reply to questions which have been received as to the exact position of British subjects enlisted in the British army as regards the question of the payment of rent we may say that the order des avocats at the Palais de Justice informs us that the term 'mobilier'
in the different decrees concerning rents is considered as applicable also to persons who have voluntarily enlisted and in consequence British subject with the colors cannot be called upon to pay."

"With regard to the question of simulated by such persons while on active service, there is no present means of obtaining restitution, although it is very probable that the arbitration committees which it is proposed to set up will judge all cases individually and order a reimbursement if it is justified."

HOW TO AVOID GRIP.

Nurse Says Keep the House Open and Get Lots of Fresh Air.

Open air exercise taken every day and avoiding house to house visiting especially where there is a case of grip influenza or the slightest cold, is the advice of Miss Ada Byford, a trained nurse, who prescribes for the prevention of influenza or grip. Miss Byford, writing to the North Carolina state board of health, says she was a child in England when the first well remembered epidemic of grip passed through that country and that she was a hospital nurse when the second epidemic made its tour.

She says: "Air the house thoroughly every day. It is a mistake to shut up the house to keep the cold out, as it only keeps the germs in. Let the children out, put on their walking clothes."
Miss Byford doesn't say don't kiss or cover up the sneezes, but she says must avoid the presence of any one suffering with the slightest cold, for in your case it may be not merely a cold, but grip or pneumonia.

How Chinese Are Counted.
The inhabitants of China are counted every year in a curious manner.
The oldest master of every ten houses has to count the families and make a list, which is sent to the imperial tax house.

AWAITS DEATH BY SLEEPING ILLNESS

Brooklyn Physician Bitten by SCIENCE HAS NO REMEDY.

Slumbering to death in the grip of

and big game hunter, has attracted the attention of physicians in all parts of the world who are students of tropical diseases. His case is remarkable in in practically all cases to be the fatal sleep. The most unique case on record previous to this was that of an English physician, who fought off the sleep for two years.

In a last hope that somewhere a remedy may be found to rouse her son
from his lethargy, his mother, Mrs.
Delancy Perrell, who has been his devoted nurse, is making a widespread appeal to physicians with knowledge of the dread disease. One physician expressed a belief that the sufferer might be saved.

Although he has not been out of bed in eight weeks, Dr. Perrell does not suffer the slightest pain. He appears to be sleeping peacefully and shows not the slightest trace of disease. The rigid tan of the African sun has not left his cheeks, he has lost but little weight, and as he is in the prime of life, about forty years old, over six feet in height and of athletic build it is hard to believe, after a sight of him, that he is ill. He has the appearance of a man coming from a hard day's work and sleeping soundly.

Clear Mind in Waking Moments.

At intervals during the day he wakes up and remains awake for several minutes. Then he is given food which he digests without trouble. In his few minutes of consciousness he can talk clearly of his case, of his African travels and adventures and of matters of general interest, but often in the middle of a sentence his eyes will close and he will sink back upon the pillow sound asleep. His heart, lungs and all the organs of his body are in sound condition.

Dr. Perrell graduated from New York university in 1894 and six years later went to the Kongo with an exploring party of Belgians. He remained there until May, 1914, when he returned to Brussels. Three years before leaving the Kongo he had been bitten by tsetse flies and was taken with the first symptoms of the sleeping sickness. He used herbs prepared by the natives and with his rugged constitution apparently wore away the disease, but it reappeared when he arrived in Brussels.

Upon his arrival he found that a man to whom he had been sending his earnings had stolen the money and left for South America. He suffered a nervous breakdown after hearing of this, and in his weakened condition the disease again came on him. He was treated in Brussels and was taken from there to the Pasteur Institute in Paris and later to a hospital in Edinburgh where tropical diseases are specially treated. Nothing could be done for him, and last August he returned to this country.

"The glands and vessels of his legs and arms were affected when he arrived here, but he did not have the sleepy feeling. That came on gradually and eight weeks ago became so pronounced that he could not leave his bed. His moments of wakefulness now are getting fewer and fewer, and it is becoming more difficult to give him nourishment."

Scientists Offer Little Hope.

The little parasite deposited in the blood by the tsetse fly, which carries it from the mouths of wild animals of the jungle, lodges in the cerebrospinal fluid, and it is in the spinal nerves leading to the brain that it exerts its influence, according to Sir William Osler of Oxford and Professor Thomas McRae of Jefferson Medical College of Philadelphia, who made a joint study of the disease. Until ten years ago the cause of the sleeping sickness was unknown, and it was believed a disease peculiar to the negro.
But Dr. J. E. Burton discovered it was due to germs carried by the tsetse and distributed with its bite. The fly is about three-quarters of an inch long and looks like a cross between a common housefly and a bee.

After stating that a few in the preliminary stages of the disease recover, Dr. Osler in his treatise says that when the patient reaches the sleeping stage all hope is lost and death comes sooner or later.

Practical Arithmetic In School.
Arithmetic is taught in the Lewiston
Main Normal Training school by practical experience in buying and selling.
A model store is conducted in which some of the pupils act as salesmen and others as customers. In this way the students become accustomed to the mathematics of business.

Cure for Hiccoughs.
Sit erect and inflate the lungs fully.
Then, retaining the breath, bend forward slowly until the chest meets the knees. After slowly rising again to the erect position, slowly exhale the breath. Repeat a second time and the hiccoughs will stop.

DAIRY and CREAMERY

TRAINING OF HEIFERS.

Kindly Treatment Pays In Handling
Young Animals.

The young heifer must be kindly handled and accustomed to having people around her, writes a correspondent of the American Agriculturist. I have my heifers so trained that they elevate their tails when they see me coming. They expect me to pet them or scratch their sides or otherwise give them a little attention. How different this is from stepping into a stable, speaking harshly or striking hard with the hand or with a whip! That practice keeps the animals alarmed, and they are always excitable the moment

A GREAT MILK PRODUCER.

you step in the stable. Kindness, therefore, is the one great thought in handling heifers.

I have been surprised how quickly
the young heifer will respond when some dainty morsel is fed out of the hand. They change their mental attitude at once. In beginning to milk I caress the young cow, rub my hand over her flank and sides and then, on sitting down, wait just a few minutes before beginning to draw the milk.
This method gains her confidence, and you soon have no trouble whatever in milking or in otherwise handling the young heifer in any manner.

To Prepare Cheese Rennet.

To prepare cheese rennet from the stomach of calves take those from calves six or seven weeks old, wash them thoroughly, stretch on a board and rub with salt and pepper mixed.
Dry until needed. To prepare a rennet supply of rennet mix one-half teaspoonful of molasses, one quart of water and a tablespoonful of salt with a little pepper. Boil this and place in a bottle.
When it has cooled to lukewarm add a stomach, cut in small pieces and cork securely. It is ready to use after twenty-four hours. One tablespoonful added to a pailful of milk will form a curd in one-half hour.

Molasses as a Dairy Feed.

Blackstrap molasses, a byproduct of the cane sugar industry, is very palatable to most farm animals and often may be advantageously fed to fattening cattle during the finishing period when their appetite is tickle. So far as we know, it has no unusual value as a stimulant to milk production, and we do not advise its use where other concentrates rich in carbohydrates, like corn or barley, can be purchased at a reasonable price. The beet sugar molasses is not generally considered as adapted for feeding purposes.—
Hoard's Dairyman.

Prescription For Pink Eye.

The following advice for the treatment of pink eye in calves is given by Dr. W. P. Shuler of the department of veterinary medicine of Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college.
For an eye wash use one ounce of boric acid, two drams of zinc sulphate and fifteen grains of eserine. This is to be made up to twelve ounces with water and dropped into the eye by means of a medicine dropper once or twice daily. Administer in addition to this such substances as will regulate the bowels and drain doses of Fowler's solution of arsenic once daily.

Sanitary Milk Pails.

Milk pails should be of such construction as to enable them to be easily cleaned and kept bright. This is best accomplished by having the inner surface of the pail smooth and free from seams or crevices, which serve as a place for dirt to accumulate and make its removal difficult. The pails should have the seams smoothly soldered and should be heavily tinned to prevent rusting. They should have a narrow or covered top to exclude as much falling dirt as possible.

Dangers of Moldy Silage.

Moldy silage of any sort is very likely to cause abortion. Such silage is particularly liable to cause fatal kidney disease of sheep. It would be dangerous feed for cows. If the moldy and rotten parts are rejected such silage may be fed to cows to good advantage and without bad results.

Dairy Barn Construction.

When constructing a new barn or if the old one is remodeled, see that the walls are smooth and that the ceiling is tight. The floor and the base of the walls should be constructed of cement in order that the liquid manure may be saved and removed.

To Avoid Tainted Milk.

It is desirable to have dairy cattle in a barn by themselves. The odor from horse stalls, filthy calf pens or hog pens is objectionable, because it will taint the milk when it is drawn.

Making Better Butter.

Much farm butter sells at a low price, not because it is in itself bad, but because it is made to suit the taster and not the buyer.

Worth While Quotation.

The idle man stands outside of God's plan, outside of the ordained scheme of things, and the truest self-respect, the noblest independence, and the most genuine dignity are not to be found there.—J. G. Holland.

FARM SANITATION.

The leaders of the national grange have suggested that a good subject for local organizations to study this winter is sanitary equipment for the farm.
This includes water supply, sewage disposal and the accompanying problems of plumbing. No better suggestion could be made.
There is perhaps no single subject pertaining to the farm home which is of more interest and which will mean more to famers than this. Farmers have outgrown the old methods, and a constantly increasing number in all parts of the country are looking up the questions relating to home betterment.—Orange Judd Farmer.

CONTROL OF BAGWORM.

Pick Off the Cocoons Which Dangle
From Twigs and Branches.

If you would save the arbor vines, red cedars, maples and other trees and shrubs, pick off the long brown, slender, silk-like cocoons which dangle
from their twigs and branches and burn them. This will destroy the well-known bag or basket worm, which is now in the egg stage within the cocoons.
This pest is often a great deal more destructive than cankerworms, San Jose scale and other pests. Each bag or case may contain from 700 to 1,200
eggs, which during next May and June will hatch into as many hungry caterpillars.

The bag or basket worm is one of the most common and injurious insect pests in the parks and plantings of the larger cities and towns of Missouri. In many cases it is doing more harm to shrubs and shade trees than all other insects combined. If the proper measures of prevention are put into practice it is, however, one of the easiest insects to control.

A simple way of destroying the pest is to collect the cases or bags during the fall and winter and burn them. If this work is thoroughly done the eggs of the insects will be destroyed and the pest may be completely stamped out.

Since the caterpillars that hatch from the bagworm eggs are leaf eaters they may be destroyed by the use of arsenic leaf powders. When the worms are small or just emerging from the bag like cases during May and June they may be killed easily by spraying with foliage thoroughly with arsenate of lime dust at the rate of three pounds to fifty gallons of water. This spray should be applied just as soon as the pest begins to feed in the spring. Later sprays may require more poison. During the summer sticky bands placed around the trunks of the trees will protect them from the caterpillars which wander at this season.—T. J.
Talbert, Missouri Station.

Make Nest Boxes Movable.

Everything in the henhouse should be movable—nests, roosts, dust boxes,
etc. This gives an easy chance to fight vermin and also give the house a thorough cleaning. The old practice of nailing nests, roosts and all fixtures to the building was a bad mistake, and there is no wonder that live reindeer supreme.

T. W. Vane, Hammondton, N. J., has a novel nest method. Ordinary boxes are used. These are so placed that the lower box provides a platform for the upper nest, upon which the hens can easily alight. These nests are readily taken outdoors and thoroughly cleaned. The illustration gives the idea very clearly.—Farm Journal.

POULTRY NOTES.

Better hens, better care.
Better care, better egg yield.
Better egg yield, better purse.
Better purse, better farmer.
Better farmer, better hens.

If your hens are not laying these days the one great desideratum that will make them commence is ground bone and meal. These are rich in albumen, phosphate of lime and phosphoric acid, which go to make eggs and shells.

Too much leniency shown toward sick fowls and a failure to remove them from the rest of the flock in a hope of their ultimate recovery often lead to the inoculation of the entire flock and the ruin of the enterprise.

Sometimes when a fowl is thick in the molt it will be seen constantly pecking at one particular place on its body. This may be caused by one or more of the new feathers failing to pass through the skin and causing great irritation. If a needle is passed under the covered end of the feather it will enable it to be drawn above the skin.

Do not allow the hens to get in the habit of standing around all day doing nothing. When they do this it is an indication that they are too fat, diseased or fed in such a manner that they do not have to work for it. Activity and egg laying go together. To promote exercise a good plan is to hang up, about three feet high in the henhouse, pieces of meat, sugar beets, cabbage or turnips for them to pick at.

Mrs. Whitehouse a Tireless Worker For Suffrage.

The new head of what is probably the biggest single state suffrage organization in the world is Mrs. Norman De R. Whitehouse. In spite of Mrs.
Whitehouse's youth she has been chosen to head this big organization because of her genius for leadership.

She is endowed with that supreme gift by which men climb to the summit of large concerns everywhere. She knows what she wants and how she wants it. She puts her finger with swiftness and exactness upon flaws, futilities, discrepancies.

Mrs. Whitehouse was born in New Orleans, how few years ago the suffrage organization is rather careful to conceal, since youth seems to be Mrs.
Whitehouse's only handicap. But every one knows that "youth" is a thing which will not endure, therefore there is little need of charging this up against one who has achieved as much in the past two and a half years as the New York State Woman Suffrage party chairman.

In spite of growing up among the antislavery ideals of a southern city,
Mrs. Whitehouse became a suffrage worker just before the 1913 suffrage parade. She was not hurried into the cause by any great event. She "just thought it was right," that's all. "I had always been interested in fair play for women as well as men—in justice for all," said she. "Women always obeyed the laws, and I couldn't see why they shouldn't share in making the laws. They paid taxes, and I couldn't see why it was fair to tax a woman and not let her vote. It somehow never seemed to me to be playing the game fairly to give men the vote and withhold it from women." This was the simple and direct road by which a brilliant society woman arrived at becoming the serious and responsible head of one of the most important political movements of her generation.

president of the International Structural Iron Workers' union a few years country. He became president of Labor's National Peace council upon its formation last April, but resigned Aug.

Peace council in Washington, June 22, 1915, Mr. Buchanan presided. At that meeting the council outlined a project for the government to take over the manufacture of all arms, ammunition and munitions of war and put a stop to all foreign shipments of arms and ammunition. It also urged all organized labor bodies in this country and Europe to work to bring about a ces-

to war munitions and that an extra session of congress should be called to

WILL FIGHT TO END, SAYS KING

Message of George V as Parliament Quits.

PROROGUED UNTIL FEB. 15

Declares Allies Will Not Lay Down Arms Until Cause Carrying Future of Civilization is Vindicated.

London, Jan. 28.—Parliament was prorogued until February 15. In the proroguing King George said:

"We shall not lay down our arms until we have vindicated the cause which carries with it the future of civilization."

The speech of the king was probably the briefest on record on such an occasion, but his references to the war were regarded as highly important.

"For eighteen months my navy and army have been engaged, in concert with brave and steadfast allies, in defending our common liberties and the public law of Europe against unprovoked encroachments by the enemy," he said. "I am sustained by the determination of my people at home and overseas to carry our flag to a final decisive victory. In this struggle, forced upon us by those who hold in light esteem the liberties and covenants which we regard as sacred, we shall not lay down our arms until we have vindicated the cause which carries with it the future of civilization."

"I rely with confidence upon the loyal and united efforts of all my subjects, which have never failed me, and I pray that Almighty God may give us His blessing."

The king thanked the house of commons for the ungrudging liberality with which it has provided for the heavy demands of the war.

The result of the anxiously awaited debate in the house of commons on the blockade question was that the British government adheres to its existing policy.

A resolution introduced by Arthur Balfour, Unionist member for Plymouth, that the entire overland traffic with Germany should be prohibited by a blockade, was talked out and the subject dropped, thus leaving the position exactly as before the debate, except that parliament seems more converted to the government policy.

Interesting figures published by the war department partly demolished the elaborate structure raised by the newspapers, and Sir Edward Grey's effective speech appeared to finish the work thus begun.

After the foreign secretary had spoken, Commander Bellairs said he had anticipated that nine-tenths of the house would be against Sir Edward, but since his speech he had to admit nine-tenths were with him. In fact, after the foreign secretary sat down, the house gradually emptied, and at one time during the debate only a half dozen members were present.

CHINAMAN KILLS WHITE WIFE

Snatches Woman in Their Room, But Says it Was Accident.

Philadelphia, Jan. 28.—Margaret Wah, twenty-three years old, the wife of Joseph Wah, a Chinese, was shot and killed in their room on the second floor of a chop suey restaurant at 1223 South street.

Joseph, who is thirty-five years old, was arrested by the police with four witnesses, two colored men, a colored woman and a Chinese, who were found in the room.

The police believe the woman was killed accidentally and exonerated the husband, whom they charged with the shooting when they arrested him. Dorothy Foy, a colored woman, wife of Joseph Foy, proprietor of the restaurant, admitted that she held the revolver when the shot was fired. She said she pulled the trigger when Joseph Wah sought to grab the weapon from her.

NEED 1,500,000 COAST GUARD

Wood Says Belligerent Could Land 500,000 Men in Thirty Days.

Washington, Jan. 28.—The position of the United States in a war-time world was described to the house military committee by Major General Leonard Wood as like that of "a ship at sea, with typhoon signals coming from many directions."

"We are living in an era of war," he said, "and gradually are accumulating most of the troubles of the world."

General Wood, who appeared at the committee's hearings on the army increase bills, said it would take an army of a million and a half to hold a line from Boston south. Should conditions at the close of the war in Europe invite attack, he declared, any of the more powerful of the belligerents could land 500,000 men on American soil in less than thirty days.

A regular army of 220,000, fully trained and always under arms, with at least 2,000,000 reserves behind them should be provided, he urged, to meet this situation. The United States navy he classed as fourth in fighting efficiency, and declared it could not maintain control of the sea or defend the coasts.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED FOR AUSTIN FLOOD

Paper Company and Directors Named in Action.

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 28.—A $150,000 damage suit has been filed in the United States court northern district of New York, against the Bayless Pulp and Paper company and its directors, growing out of the Austin flood, September 30, 1911.

After the Austin dam broke, about 400 million gallons of water swept through the valley. The village of Austin, Pa., was wrecked and seventy-five lives were lost.

The complaint names these defendants, who were served: Bayless Pulp and Paper company, and its directors, George C. Bayless, Franklin J. Bayless, John Bayless, George W. Berkshaw, Thomas B. Cray, C. Gifford Davidge, John P. Freiberg, Addison J. Parsons and Z. Bennett Phelps.

The plaintiffs are Michael C. Collins and James P. Higgins, business men of Austin, to whom claims of some thirty other business men have been assigned, totalling $152,785.

The complaint alleges that the corporation and its directors, in order to save money, caused the dam to be constructed lighter and less secure than the engineer's original design specified, and were negligent in repairing it when it began to give way.

AMERICA COMES FIRST

Must be Guiding Principle of Foreign Born After Naturalization.

New York, Jan. 28.—"America first" must be the guiding principle of naturalized Americans, Federal Judge Clayton asserted in sentencing Harry Max Zelinka, an importer, to imprisonment for one month in the Blackwell's island penitentiary and to pay a fine of $2000 for having aided Harold Alfred Bondy, a German, to obtain an American passport in the name of "Harold Green."

Zelinka, an Austrian by birth, but a naturalized citizen of the United States, pleaded guilty.

YOUNG FOLKS' CORNER

Popular Japanese Games.

One of the most popular games among Japanese children is otedama, played with small cloth bags filled with red beans. The number of bags used is seven or ten. The game consists in throwing the bags into the air one after another in quick succession, trying to catch them before they reach the ground. The idea is to keep all the bags in motion.

Another popular game is Ishikiri, or stone kicking. Chalk lines are drawn on the street, making squares, in which pebbles are placed. The game is to hop from one square to another on one foot, kicking the pebbles.

In the game of mihiki, or ear pulling, two boys sit opposite each other with loops in their hands and try to lasso an ear of the opponent. Another boys' game is kubihiki, or head pulling. Two boys are tied together by the neck, and then they try to pull each other about, the one yielding losing.

In uranekkura sides are chosen. Each side stares at the other, and the side none of the members of which laugh is the winner. Even to show the teeth is to lose.

Udeshi is a game wherein two boys sit opposite and push hand against hand until one yields. In yubizumo, or finger wrestling, two boys match finger against finger, the fingers of the opposing hands being locked together, thumbs free. The fingers are pressed against each other until one boy's hand is pressed back or down.

Iksa-gokko is a war game in which the youngsters dress in paper uniforms, with swords and knapsacks, and parade.

"Four Legs." A nice game to play on a rainy day is "four legs." It has a little trick in it which keeps those who do not know the game puzzled as to what it is.

Any number of persons may play. A number of chairs equal to the exact number of persons playing is put in a circle. The players then are seated with the exception of one, who is to be "it." The one who is "it" goes out of the room while an object is chosen. He is then called in and asked what the object is for example:

Q.—Is it the picture?
A.—No.
Q.—Is it the lamp?
A.—No.
Q.—Is it the door?
A.—No.
Q.—Is it the chair?
A.—No.
Q.—Is it the book?
A.—Yes.
The question preceding the last is about an object that has four legs. So, therefore, the question following is the object which was chosen. But, in case the one "it" doesn't know the game, then he has to be "it" over again.

"Henroost." Each of the players, except one, chooses a word, which must be the name of some object, and in answering any questions put to him in the game he must introduce this word, which he has chosen, into each answer. The odd player is questioner. He may ask any questions he wishes.

The following serves as an example: Question.—I heard you got into the henroost yesterday. How did you get in?

Answer.—With the dictionary.
"What did you find there?" (to next player).
"A horse."
"What did you give him to eat?"
"A sofa pillow."
Any player who laughs or who answers incorrectly must exchange places with the questioner.

High Finance.

A boy went into a candy store. He was told that he could have six sticks of candy for 5 cents. He said:

"Six sticks for 5 cents, five sticks for 4 cents, four sticks for 3 cents, three sticks for 2 cents, two sticks for 1 cent, one stick for nothing. I'll take one stick."

Pussycat's Feast.

Pussycat, pussycat, where have you been?

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

FISH FOR DINNER.

BAKED TUNA FISH.—Put either one large can or two small cans of tuna fish in a greased pudding dish. Melt three tablespoonsful butter, rub in three tablespoonsful flour and add one cupful warm milk, a pinch of salt and a little pepper, three tablespoonsful minced parsley. Pour over fish and cover with buttered breadcrumbs. Bake until a rich brown.

Lobster à la Newburg.—Stir a pinch of baking soda into a pint of cream. Put with this the beaten yolks of three eggs into a double boiler and bring to the boiling point, stirring often. When it has thickened stir in quickly a glass of sherry. Add at once two cupfuls of lobster meat cut into small cubes and seasoned to taste with salt and cayenne. Stir until it is smoking hot and serve in a deep dish. The quality of the delicacy depends upon obedience to the directions herewith given and upon ready serving.

Oyster Cocktails.—To prepare this acceptable appetizer allow a half dozen small oysters to each person and put on the ice where they will be thoroughly chilled. For six covers mix together three teaspoonfuls each vinegar, grated radish and tomato juice and a few drops of tabasco. Have this dressing also where it will be very cold. When ready to serve put the oysters in chilled glasses, pour the sauce over, set the glasses on a plate and serve with thin slices buttered bread.

Baked Bluefish.—Clean fish thoroughly outside and inside, wipe dry and rub with salt. Fill with stuffing and sew with greased string. Tie or use skewers to shape fish like an S. Cut gashes two inches apart in the sides and place in thin narrow strips of fat salt pork or bacon. Place the fish in an upright position on a greased tin sheet and put in meat pan. Put slices of pork or bacon in the bottom of the pan to furnish fat for basting. Broil fish with flour, season with salt and pepper and baste every ten minutes. Bake until flesh will separate easily from the bones. Allow about fifteen minutes for each pound of fish.

Negligee Shirt For Men and Youths.

And here is a model that almost any home dressmaker can make with the perfection of a custom-made design if she follows directions carefully.

In medium size the shirt requires 3½ yards 36-inch material. It will be necessary, as is shown by the cutting guide, to divide the material into two parts. One part is folded while the other is left open. On the open width of material are laid the collar, the sleeve, the pocket and the front, all a lengthwise thread. Of course the open width is doubled so that two sections can be cut at once. Be sure to place two right or two wrong sides together when using two widths of open material.

Now on the fold place the yoke, then directly to the right of it, the back. Opposite the yoke, on a lengthwise thread of the material is laid the cuff. The band and lap come next, both laid on a lengthwise thread of the goods.

If striped material is used, study the construction guide carefully and place the stripes so that they will match as nearly as possible.

This model is ideal for shirts made of madras, linen or pongee silk. It requires but a minimum of work and when well finished is far more desirable than the most expert of ready-made shirts.

Every man likes a comfortable shirt.

HEALTH WORK IS FAR FROM PERFECT

Survey Covering 219 Cities Shows It Is Still In Infancy.

WIDE RANGE IN THE COST.

Some Cities Spend Much More For Their Boards of Health Than Others. One-fifth of the Cities Make No Medical Inspection of School Children—Few Have Coherent Programs.

A comprehensive survey covering 219 cities of the United States having more than 25,000 population has been made of the activities of the health departments by Frank Schneider, Jr., of the department of surveys and exhibits of the Russell Sage foundation. His report is now being circulated by the foundation.

Mr. Schneider's conclusion is that public health work is still in its infancy, in some cities more than in others. He suggests a minimum expenditure per capita by the health departments. This should range from 50 cents to $1, according to the size of the cities. He has found that some cities spend as high as 98 cents per capita and others are content with 4 cents.

One-fifth of the 219 cities make no inspection of school children, he found; one-third did not offer the ordinary laboratory diagnoses for the common communicable diseases; one-fourth made no effort to educate in health matters; nearly three-fourths had no housing law; nineteen-twentieths had no concern with the hygiene of industry; one-half had no proper organization to combat infant mortality, and more than three-quarters had no coherent program against tuberculosis.

Efficiency Was Not Considered. Mr. Schneider lays emphasis on the fact that his survey made no attempt to consider the efficiency of the work attempted, but only whether or not it was attempted.

"When we reflect on the partial thoroughness with which their slender staffs, engaged them to perform their work," the report says, "the conclusion becomes inevitable that public health work in this country is still in its infancy, certainly as far as application of established scientific methods is concerned."

"Another striking result of the investigation is the variation in activity exhibited by health departments in different sections of the country. The southern and Pacific cities clearly out-rank the others, and the north central and mountain cities are markedly inferior."

"One other point should receive all possible emphasis—the relations between these examples of municipal neglect and the scanty health department appropriations. What can we expect of a department in a city of 25,000 whose total appropriation is but $200? And if the New York city department uses 58 cents for each inhabitant each year and has to practice great care to make it go round what can our average city do on only 22 cents? Again, do any real differences in local conditions require that Seattle spend 98 cents an inhabitant each year while Woonsocket may rest content with 4 cents?"

DRIFTED ACROSS THE PACIFIC.

Eight Japanese Land at British Columbia After Twenty-four Days.

A story of eight Japanese fishermen who drifted all the way across the Pacific ocean in a small fishing boat, landing after twenty-four days of hardships on the British Columbian shore, reached the bureau of navigation in consular dispatches.

The narrative tells how the fishermen, caught off the harbor of Shimoda, Japan, in a storm that carried away their vessel's mainmast and rudder, were driven eastward by ocean currents, helpless, and how toward the end of their trip they were half starved. The boat grounded on one of the uninhabited islands that dot the British Columbian shore, where the men remained until picked up by a passing steamer.

Only one of the party, the owner of the boat, suffered any serious ill effects from the trip. He is now in a Prince Rupert hospital.

The boat was of the type common along the Japanese coast, fitted with cooking utensils. It became water-logged in the storm that stripped it of sails, and after first attempts the Japanese made no further effort to direct its course.

Bininger's Tramp

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

Bininger was a great walker. He thought nothing of a five mile tramp before breakfast, and as to a day's walk, he could do forty miles. One day he was lounging in the Arlington Country club with Herbert Yorke, boasting as to what he could do on his legs, when Yorke offered to bet him a box of cigars that he couldn't walk twenty miles in three hours.

Bininger took the bet, and a course was laid out forming an ellipse, the starting and ending point being the Arlington clubhouse.

Bininger had no sooner started than Yorke telephoned to his sister Kate. "I say, Kit, I've a bet with Charlie Bininger that he can't do a job of walking in a given time. I want to take you across to Hilton, you to way-lay him there and keep him from winning the bet."

"How can I do that?" "How can you do that? Why, by stuff and nonsense."

"What'll you give me if I succeed?" "A five pound box of candy."

"When do you propose to leave?" "I'll be with you in half an hour."

In thirty minutes Herbert Yorke was before the door of his home in his car. His sister got into it, and they proceeded along the minor axis of the ellipse that Bininger was walking toward Hilton. But Kit declared that she would prefer to tackle the pedestrian about three miles before he reached the goal, and their course was changed to Glendale, where Kit had friends. Arriving there, her brother deposited her at the door of the Marklands, with whom she was intimate; then he returned to Arlington.

It was about 3 o'clock in the afternoon that Bininger came along. Kit was on the front porch in walking costume.

"Why, Mr. Bininger," she exclaimed, "what are you doing here?"

Bininger did not propose to tell her that he was walking to win a bet from her brother. He said that he was taking a twenty mile constitutional and was on his way to Arlington.

"How fortunate!" said Kit. "I am just setting out to walk home myself. You wouldn't mind my going with you, would you?"

"I would be delighted if it were not that I must be at Arlington at a given time. I fear I shall have to walk too fast for you."

"Never fear for that. I love tramping, and this is a fine, crisp morning for a walk."

Bininger looked at his watch and frowned, but he had not the heart to refuse a girl, and a pretty girl at that. He said that he would be very happy to have her company, only he must leave her behind if she couldn't keep up with him.

Kit did the first mile at a satisfactory pace, but on the second she began to lag. Bininger was always several yards ahead of her. Finally he turned and told her he must leave her or fail to do his tramp in the time set for its accomplishment. Kit said never a word, but the look she gave him said very plainly that she was hurt; that she had expected Mr. Bininger would prefer her to completing a walk on time. He had admired her, but it had never occurred to him that he was any more to her than any other friend. What was a box of cigars compared to that look? He went back to where she was dragging herself along and offered her his arm to lean upon. Presently, coming to a log beside the road, she sank down on it and told her escort to go on, since he preferred a pedestrian feat to her. She would go home somehow or other.

Instead of going on Bininger sat down on the log very close to her and since she seemed exhausted, formed a back for her to lean against with his arm.

When time was up for the accomplishment of the walk Yorke sat on the clubhouse veranda with his watch in his hand, looking up the road for Bininger. At 3 o'clock, there being no sign of the pedestrian, he put his watch back in his pocket, asked a company of young men into the clubhouse and opened champagne.

"I don't care for the cigars I have won," he said gleefully, "but I rejoice at having got ahead of that boaster."

The conviviality was at its height when in walked Bininger, looking as if he had been doused with joy instead of having made a twenty mile walk. He directed the steward to produce a box of Yorke's favorite brand of cigars and called for more champagne.

"You seem very happy over your defeat," said Yorke somewhat uneasily. "I am. Here's that you may be pleased when you hear why I am happy."

Yorke said no more, but when the party dispersed went home and asked his sister why Bininger was so pleased at losing his bet.

"Why, because by losing a box of cigars he won me."

"You! You don't mean that you had to promise to marry him to make him lose his bet?"

"I had to make him lose his bet in order to get a proposal from him. I couldn't do it very well walking at five miles an hour, could I?"

"I think you could."

"Well, we're engaged, and, what's more, we're engaged for good. I've had serious intentions with regard to him for some time."

Twins. The tendency to produce more than one child at a birth runs in families. It is handed down from mother to daughter. If the former has given birth to one or more sets of twins, the latter is rather likely to do the same thing.

TIRED WORKING MEN

A Local Druggist Suggests a Remedy for Overworked, Run-Down Men.

The following letter from Manager Hodges recounts the experience and condition of many Gettysburg men. Read this letter and our offer which follows:

Brooklyn, N. Y., "I am a general office manager, and became so nervous and run-down in health that I lost my appetite and finally my health broke down completely, largely because of overwork. I tried Beef Iron and Wine, and other remedies without help. I saw Vinol advertised, and soon after taking it I noticed an improvement. I now have a hearty appetite, sleep better, feel better and have gained considerable in weight." Samuel Hodges, 501 Stone Ave.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains the three oldest and most famous tonics—viz.—the medicinal elements of fresh cod livers without oil, peptonate of iron and beef peptonate.

We ask every run-down, over-worked man in Gettysburg to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it fails to help them as it did Mr. Hodges. C. Wm. Beales, Prop., The People's Drug Store.

NO MORE NEED OF RASH OR ITCHING

Simple Home Remedy to Clear the Skin—Anybody Can Use It.

Apply antiseptic Ucanol night and morning to clear the skin of rash, itching, pimples, eczema, salt rheum, and other affections. It should so quickly and thoroughly relieve that torturing itching and begin its healing that you will wonder why you didn't use it before. You can always get antiseptic Ucanol at The People's Drug Store. It never costs more than 50 cents for a liberal supply, and to convince anyone who may be skeptical they say that if as dissatisfied with the results, return the empty box and they will give the empty box and they will give your money back without argument.

Antiseptic Ucanol is the latest discovery for skin troubles, and the reason it is used so widely is that each person who tries it tells others and advises its use. There are few remedies possessing the same healing powers, and the way it stops the itching and clears the skin in a remarkably short time tells the story of its unusual success.

The boy or girl, man or woman, who continues to go among friends with disfiguring and disgusting pimples and sores resulting from itching, eczema, etc., when they can secure Ucanol so reasonably, and under guarantee of results, have only themselves to blame if their trouble continues to grow worse.

EASTER TO OPEN TOURIST SEASON

Tours of Many Sorts Coming to Gettysburg this Spring. Every Indication of Good Business.

Booking agents of the various tourist companies are arranging dates for a number of personally conducted tours to Gettysburg during the early spring months, and indications now show that the town will have a highly prosperous summer.

The season will open formally on Easter. The Althouse Touring Company, which last fall ran a three day trip to Gettysburg as an experiment, were so much pleased with the success of the affair and the treatment accorded them here, that they announce a two day trip with one hundred in the party for Easter Sunday, the tour arriving here over the Reading in a train of new steel coaches the day preceding. They will stay at Hotel Gettysburg.

Inquiries have also been made as to the town's ability to furnish accommodations for a large party from the Hunt Memorial School, at Freeville, New York, during the same week. The party will come here on their way to Washington. Easter Sunday this year does not come until April 23, so that scores of automobiles may be expected to come to Gettysburg for the day.

Last year, Memorial Day, July Fourth and Labor Day all provided two day trips to Gettysburg and the week-end automobile tour to the battlefield is coming to be more and more recognized as one of the nicest outings that can be arranged by people from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Washington.

On April 27, the Foster Tourist Agency, of Philadelphia, will bring a party of one hundred here for a stay of several days. They, too, have made the necessary reservations at Hotel Gettysburg.

One of the best parties of the early portion of the season will be the trip of the New York Credit Men's Association on their way to Pittsburgh. Their plans here call for a sufficient number of automobiles to take the entire party over the field, each machine to be accompanied by a guide and the whole party to have the services of a chief guide who shall lecture at various places. The Hotel Gettysburg will be their headquarters during their stay here.

The Eagle Hotel will entertain its usual large number of personally conducted tours. Inquiries have been received from New York and New England, relative to dates, and the latter part of April and the beginning of May will see the customary number of visitors.

The railroads are booking the usual excursions for Memorial Day, while the Reading has also listed a special excursion for July Fourth. At this early date they are arranging for the Topton excursion next October so that it will evidently be held as in other years.

M. O. SMITH DIES

Peter Yingling Dies a Few Minutes after Wife Finds him Ill. William A. Scott Dead. Little Dorothy Bream.

Malcolm O. Smith, one of the most prominent citizens of Hanover, died this morning at 10:40 o'clock aged 69 years. He was stricken with apoplexy two years ago but his condition was not serious until the latter part of last week when he became critically ill.

Mr. Smith was born in York a son of William W. and Charlotte (Stair) Smith. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Gettysburg College in 1873 and taught in the public schools of Hanover for some years, also founding the Hanover Academy. For over forty years he had been in the publishing business, having been the founder of the Glen Rock Item but devoting the greater portion of his life to the papers of the Hanover Printing Company, the most generally known of which is the Daily Record-Herald.

Mr. Smith was president of the Hanover Trust Company, secretary and director of the Hanover Agricultural Society for 25 years, member of the Hanover Improvement Company, a director in the Hanover Building and Loan Association, for many years secretary of the Hanover Board of Trade; and was largely instrumental in getting for Hanover its trolley systems.

He was a veteran of the Civil War, serving in Company D, 163d Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and was the founder of Major Jenkins Post 39, of Hanover, serving as its commander for three years.

He leaves his wife, who before marriage was Miss Louisa Vandersloot, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Vandersloot, of Gettysburg. He also leaves a foster daughter, a sister, and two step brothers.

The date of the funeral has not been set.

PETER YINGLING

Peter Yingling, a well known citizen of Littlestown, died very suddenly at his home in that place shortly after midnight Saturday morning from apoplexy.

Mr. Yingling had been in apparently good health during the past few weeks and Friday evening had performed his usual duties about his home. He retired between nine and ten o'clock and did not at any time complain of being ill. Mrs. Yingling was awakened about midnight and at once found that her husband was sick. She sent one of her sons for Dr. Galtier who responded promptly but Mr. Yingling died a few minutes after his arrival.

Mr. Yingling was well known not only in Littlestown but in the country surrounding where he spent the greater part of his life, working for various farmers. He moved to the town about eight or nine years ago and since that time had made his residence there. He was 68 years old at the time of his death.

He leaves his wife and seven children, six sons and a daughter. Funeral Tuesday morning from St. Aloysius church, Littlestown. Interment in the church cemetery.

WILLIAM A. SCOTT

William A. Scott died Saturday evening in the Harrisburg hospital, where he had gone for treatment last week. He was aged 68 years and the immediate cause of his death was heart failure.

Mr. Scott was a native of Gettysburg and a son of the late John and Martha (McAllister) Scott. He received his education in the local public schools and at college and, under the instruction of his father, became a very proficient telegraph operator, later holding important posts in various cities. It was through his father's

MARKED CHANGES IN STORE FRONTS

General Appearance of Gettysburg's Business Section will be Much Improved during Present Year.

Before many weeks have passed the appearance of Gettysburg's business section will have undergone a decided change for the better and many of the town's most prominent establishments will be housed in renovated or remodeled store rooms, while still others will be entirely new structures.

Among the improvements most recently planned are those to the building on Chambersburg street purchased by C. Milton Wolf from J. L. Williams Esq., assignee. Mr. Wolf will have the old store room completely refitted. The display windows which now project several feet will be taken out and replaced by others which will recede from the pavement. The entrance to the residence section of the building will be reconstructed and a recessed porch, similar to others in structures nearby, will be arranged. The building will be repainted and present a greatly improved appearance. The store room will be occupied by Charles T. Ziegler with a large line of rugs, novelties, souvenirs, and other goods.

The Hub Underselling Store will move in a few weeks from the Davis building, Carlisle street, to the remodeled Stock store room on Baltimore street. The two rooms will be thrown into one, a fine large display window has been built, the room is to be thoroughly equipped with modern shelving and cases, and in every way made up-to-date. It is not known what business will occupy the rooms now used by the Hub.

Added to these will be the very extensive alterations and additions to the first floor of the Masonic Building, the complete refurnishing of the Funkhouser store, full description of which has been given in these columns; the fine new building erected during the past year by Dr. H. L. Diehl; and the two new modern garage and apartment buildings to be put up by George F. Eberhart and David J. Forney, both of which will be not only substantial and convenient structures, but decided ornaments to the portion of the town in which they are located.

WILL GET BUSY

Boy Scouts will Have Contests. Awards to be Made.

Two contests for the Gettysburg Boy Scouts have been planned by the scoutmaster. The first is for the purpose of increasing the list of customers for the periodicals which the Scouts have been selling. Each old customer signed or each new one will bring a certain number of points to the boy who signs him. The boys receiving the highest number of points will receive three prizes, first a knife; second, a Scout axe and sheath; third, vest pocket flash-light. This contest will run for ten weeks, as also in the second or point contest. This is a test for individual efficiency and through it each Scout is required to apply himself daily to certain tasks for which he receives points. The winners of these contests will be announced some time in May.

The next meeting of the Scouts is to be held Friday evening, March 3, at 6:30. All the Scouts are asked to be present on time.

BASKET BALL

Two Defeats Suffered by Local Teams on Saturday.

The Carlisle Indians got revenge on their home floor Saturday evening when they won from Gettysburg in a fast game 34 to 31. The Phi Gamma Delta team lost to the Alpha Club at Waynesboro 34 to 18.

NO FESTIVITIES FOR THE INDIANS

Picturesque Events of Graduation Time at Carlisle School are a Thing of the Past. Old Chief Hears of it.

Owing to the recent changes in the courses of study and the fact that many pupils are employed in industrial plants in various sections, the annual commencement at the Carlisle Indian School has been abandoned, it was announced by Superintendent Lippis.

There will be "closing exercises" in May to mark the end of the thirty-sixth year since the school was founded, but the former picturesque festivities which lasted over an entire week and included a play, drills and exercises, will now be only a memory.

Among the first persons to be informed of the new ruling was Fire Thunder, a prominent Sioux Indian of the Pine Ridge Agency, in South Dakota. He is a former pupil at the school, having entered in 1879 and remaining four years. He was in Washington on business for his tribe and this is his first visit at Carlisle since his graduation 33 years ago.

With but one exception, that of George Foulke, the veteran colored coachman to the superintendent, none of the former heads or employees whom he knew are now at the school.

KILLS CATAMOUNTS

Does not Fear Any Animals. Shot the Last Wolf.

William Wright, nearly 70 years old, living along South Mountain, claims to be the catamount king of the east, and is ready to defend against any one denying this assertion. "Wildcat Bill," as he is commonly known, claims the distinction of killing the last wolf in the east. Atlantic states. Wright killed this wolf about six years ago and still has the tanned fur of the beast among his many trophies of the forests.

Wright raises various kinds of livestock and poultry on his farm. He also hunts, fishes and traps. He derives a neat income from his sale of pelts of the muskrat, skunk, wildcat, fox, squirrel, deer and sometimes bear. He is a dead shot and uses a rifle which does not mar the skin.

"Wildcat Bill" is fearless, and thinks no more of killing a catamount than he does of bagging a rabbit in his grass field. He is as hardy as pine knots growing on the trees of the forests through which he roams. He bears a number of wounds and scars. He cauterizes his wounds with a solution of carbolic acid and sometimes uses pure alcohol.

Wright accounts for his vigor through abstinence from drink and his life in the open.

Land for breeding-houses and runs is being secured adjacent to the town. Some 50 animals will constitute the initial venture, it is stated, and cats will be raised for pets as well as for fur, which is the primary intention of the new organization.

PEOPLE ARE JUST LIKE AUTOMOBILES

Says Dr. Samuel G. Dixon in his Weekly Health Talk. No Two Alike, and All Need Different Treatment.

People are just as different as locomotives or machines and what is good for one person may not be good for another. Each one should have what suits him and we can not transgress what nature has laid out for us without feeling the consequences. We must measure individual characteristics and do what is best and avoid things that do not agree with us.

These are views of Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, State Commissioner of Health, in discussing the difference in people and the importance of looking after one's health. He says:—

Engineers will tell you that no two locomotives are ever exactly alike. They may be turned out to an exactness that defies the most modern instrument for measurement or weight, to show any differences. Put into service, each machine will develop individual characteristics.

The medical man never finds two human beings with the same dispositions, mental or physical strength, yet we are created after the same model, but owing to dissimilar nerve forces or the life of our tissues, each individual has certain differences, and some have real idiosyncrasies.

There are broad rules of nature relating to our physical welfare which we cannot transgress without evil results. Likewise there are certain things which the majority of us can do without putting any unusual strain on our physique, but here begins the question of the adjustment of the individual piece of machinery. We must study our physical limitations and find out just what scope we have. Men and women often ruin their health by trying to do things simply because others do them.

The question of age must enter into consideration. It is well to bear in mind that exertion which does not seem a strain at one period in life may be dangerous in later years.

These same principles apply in matters of diet. There are foodstuffs wholesome enough to the average individual, which seem to have a deleterious effect on the few.

We must measure our individual characteristics and avoid those things that do not agree with us.

For Bronchitis, Painful Coughs, Whooping Cough And Colds

Cheapest Remedy Made at Home—128 Teaspoonful for 50 Cents

When in need of a remedy for the treatment of Bronchial Affections, such as Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, Croup, Stomach Coughs, Colds or Hoarseness, don't simply ask the druggist for a "Cough Medicine" but get the best. Tell him to give you Schiffmann's New Concentrated Expectant, instead of being induced into buying something else purely on the strength of some testimonials or the exaggerated claims of the manufacturer. The same "Money Back" guarantee goes with every bottle of this remedy sold by The People's Drug Store as does with Dr. Schiffmann's famous Asthmator, and your money will be refunded, if it does not give perfect satisfaction; in fact even more, if it is not found the best remedy ever used for these affections. In buying this new remedy, besides securing the guarantee these druggists give, it will likewise be found the most economical to use, for the reason that one bottle (50 cents' worth) makes a full pint (128 teaspoonful) of the most excellent cough medicine, after being mixed at home with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of water. One bottle will probably, therefore, be sufficient for a whole family's supply the entire winter, while the same quantity of the old, ordinary, ready-made kind of medicine would cost between $2 and $3. It is prepared from strictly harmless plants, contains absolutely no chloroform, opium, morphine or any other narcotic or injurious drugs, as do most cough remedies, and it can therefore be given to children with perfect safety. It is pleasant to take and children are fond of it. Absolutely no risk whatever is run in buying this remedy under the above positive guarantee. R. J. Schiffmann, Prop., St. Paul, Minn.

GERMANS TAKE FORT BY STORM

Hardamont Falls Before Attack, Berlin Declares.

THE FRENCH ARE REPULSED

Five Attacks to Recover Douaumont Fail After Sanginary Losses—Paris Does Not Admit Loss of Fort.

London, Feb. 28.—Fort Douaumont is still the storm center of the fighting around Verdun.

Five determined attempts made by the French troops to recapture the fort from the Germans were repulsed with sanguinary losses, according to the official statement issued by the German headquarters staff. Hardamont was taken by storm, it is declared.

The French, who have not yet admitted the capture of the fort, say in the official statement, that to the east and west of the Douaumont position the French troops are closely pressing the German detachments which were able to gain a footing in those sections and which the war office further reports, are maintaining themselves with difficulty. This would seem to indicate that if the fort itself has not been taken some of its outer works at least, are occupied by the Germans.

The German statement also declares that their troops had stormed the fortified works of Hardamont as well as the town of Champneuville and the Cote de Talou. The number of unwounded Frenchmen taken prisoners, it was added, totalled 15,000.

The text of the statement follows: "On various portions of the front there were intense artillery and mine battles.

"South of Ypres a British attack was repulsed.

"On the heights to the right of the Meuse the French attempted by attacks, repeated five times with fresh troops, to reconquer the armored fortresses of Douaumont. They were repulsed with sanguinary losses.

"To the west of the fort our troops have taken Champneuville, the Cote de Talou and have advanced as far as Nave on the southern border of the wood northeast of Bras.

"To the east of the fort we took by storm the extended fortified works of Hardamont.

"In the Woivre plain vigorous fighting is taking place on the German frontier, the battles extending as far as the Cotes Lorraine.

"According to information at present in hand, the number of unwounded prisoners amounts to nearly 15,000."

The fighting has been done in a blinding snowstorm, the French official statement declares, but notwithstanding these violent German attacks the battle front in the region to the north of Verdun underwent no change during the night. It was admitted that the French advanced posts in the Woivre district were withdrawn, but it was declared that this was effected in an orderly manner and without interference on the part of the Germans.

The French statement denies that Cote de Talou has been taken. It says: "In the region to the north of Verdun, following the violent actions of the preceding days there has been some abatement in the efforts of the enemy in the course of the day, except between the height of Douaumont and the plateau to the north of the village of Vaux, where a strong attack, carried out against our positions, was repulsed.

"To the east and west of the position of Douaumont, the slopes of which are covered by German bodies, our troops are pressing closely the enemy detachments, which were able to gain a foothold there and who are maintaining themselves with difficulty.

"According to the latest reports, the Cote de Talou, rendered untenable as well for us as for the enemy, by the bombardment of the two artillery, is not occupied by any of the adversary forces.

"In the Woivre the enemy has come in contact with our advance posts in the direction of Blanzee and Morgenville, where their efforts to debouch toward hill 255, failed.

"In the Vosges there was an artillery duel at Hartmannsweilerkopf. We took under our fire and dispersed an enemy detachment in the region of Senones."

Alaskan Exports $55,000,000.

WOULD WAR FOR PRINCIPLE ONLY

Wilson Says U. S. Must Defend Sense of Justice.

Washington, Feb. 28.—President Wilson told members of the Gridiron club and its guests at the annual dinner of the organization that violation of the essential traditions of America would be the only justification for the United States entering the European war.

"America ought to keep out of this war," said the president. "She ought to keep out of this war at the sacrifice of everything except this single point, upon which her character and history are founded, her sense of humanity and justice.

"If she sacrifices that she has ceased to be America; she has ceased to entertain and to love the traditions which have made us proud to be Americans, and when we go about seeking safety at the expense of humanity, then I for one will believe that I have been mistaken in what I have conceived to be the spirit of American history."

President Wilson evidently had the recent revolt in congress against his foreign policy in mind when he made this observation:

"I would a great deal rather know what they are talking about around quiet firesides all over this country than what they are talking about in the cloak rooms of congress."

President Wilson's speech was regarded as an answer to criticisms by senators and representatives that his present negotiations with Germany might plunge the country into war.

In closing the president made this statement:

"Valor is self-respecting. Valor is unassuming. Valor strikes only when it is right to strike. Valor withholds itself from all small complications and entanglements and waits for the great opportunity when the sword will flash as if it carried the light of heaven upon its blade."

FRAMING SOFT COAL SCALE

Miners and Operators Expected to Agree Soon.

INCREASES SEEM CERTAIN

The Anthracite Men's Demands Will Then be Taken, Thursday Being the Day Set.

New York, Feb. 28.—Prospects of an early agreement on a new wage scale for the soft coal fields of western Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois were so good that the meeting of the joint sub-committee of anthracite miners and operators, which was to be held here today to consider the demands of the hard coal miners, has been deferred to Thursday in the hope that the bituminous situation can be cleaned up without delay.

Both miners and operators negotiating the soft coal scale to go into effect April 1, said that satisfactory progress was being made and that important developments could be looked for.

The sub-committee of employer and employees of the bituminous fields met again, received the mine run plan of the workers, showing the basic prices as worked out by the United Mine Workers in event the operators grant the mine run demand and discussed the matter in a general way.

Meanwhile the operators will discuss in state groups the mine run plan to determine what rates of wages will be granted. The miners are insisting upon a ten per cent per ton increase for miners, ten per cent advance for dead work and yardage and a raise of twenty per cent for men paid by the day. The operators have not publicly admitted that they will concede an increase, but the miners have been given assurances that the coal companies are willing to grant a "substantial" advance.

Some of the operators from western Pennsylvania contend that changing the system of pay from screen to mine run will, in itself, result in a wage increase. The Pennsylvanians are ready to give their miners the mine run provided the latter incorporate in the system the protective measures which the Ohio operators succeeded in obtaining after a strike of eighteen months.

The Ohio operators and miners, and those from Illinois will have little difficulty in reaching agreements so far as their states are concerned. The Indiana situation has not yet cleared up as the miners from that district are insisting upon rates on the run of mine basis that will be at least equal to those in the Danville territory of Illinois.

The wage scale being worked out there will directly affect nearly 200,000 organized bituminous mine workers and will be the basis on which contracts will be negotiated in all other soft coal fields in the United States where agreements expire this year. The anthracite wage conference will affect 175,000 men in eastern Pennsylvania.

PEA COAL AT TOP PRICE

Proposed Mixing of It With Nut, Under Higher Mining Wages.

Allentown, Pa., Feb. 28.—As a result of the mine controversy, it is probable that there will be a change in the sizes of anthracite coal, arrangements for which are already far advanced by the operators.

There will be a lump, steamboat and broken sizes; but egg and stove are to be mixed into one size, to be called "furnace," and the favorite old chestnut and pea, most largely used for domestic purposes, are to be mixed into a new size, to be called "grate." What have been known as buckwheat, culm and dirt are to be known as steam sizes Nos. 1, 2 and 3.

The change would be a saving to the operators, especially the mixing of chestnut and pea. For some time considerable pea has been mixed with chestnut and sold at the higher price of chestnut coal. The operators figure that if the miners must have higher wages, there must be a saving somewhere, and the consumer, as usual, will foot the bill.

Taft, Archbishop Mundelein and other guests who will attend the St. Patrick's day banquet of the Irish Fellowship club was appointed. THE TURKS CAN MAKE NO STAND

Lack of Munitions Cripples the Porte's Armies.

London, Feb. 28.—Despatches from Petrograd report that the Russian troops are in hot pursuit of the Turkish forces fleeing from Erzerum, and that the Russians already have occupied the village of Aschyana, fifty miles west of Erzerum, on the road to Trebizond.

The operations around Erzerum resulted in the capture by the czar's troops of 235 Turkish officers, 12,753 men and 223 guns, so the official statement issued in Petrograd announces.

The Amsterdam correspondent of the Central News learns that heavy fighting has taken place ten miles from Bitlis, between Russian and Turkish troops, the former coming from the direction of Mush. The Turks fought bravely, but were forced to retire before superior forces.

The resistance which the Turkish forces retreating from Erzerum were offering to the advancing Russians apparently has frittered out on account of the general lack of ammunition and supplies. Unable to defend points of natural advantage, they are continuing their precipitate flight into the fastnesses of Asia Minor.

The loss of Ishmir, which was an important munition and food depot, serving the Turkish coast troops and the Erzerum forces, further crippled the power of Turkish resistance. It also cut off main road communication between Erzerum and Trebizond.

The Turkish coast army, likewise cut off, is now in a precarious position with the possibility of a Russian attack in its rear. Military experts agree that it is only a matter of a few days before the whole district formerly occupied by the Turkish left flank will become untenable.

BROTHER SHOTS BROTHER

Wounded Man Near Death After Quarrel at Public Sale.

Federalburg, Md., Feb. 28.—A shooting affray in which Albert Hignutt, it is alleged, shot and dangerously wounded his brother, George, occurred at Hickman, near here.

The brothers were attending a public sale in the village when they became involved in a quarrel and George Hignutt was shot in the stomach. He was rushed to the Eastern hospital, but little hopes are entertained for his recovery. Albert has made no effort to escape. It is alleged there has been an ill-feeling between the brothers for some time. They are about thirty-eight and forty years old.

Taming War Boom Town.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 28.—Hopewell, Va., the boom war munitions town which, without a government for a year, has run a course paralleling that of western mining towns in pioneer days, was incorporated by legislative enactment. The new town will have the novelty of an election, July 1. It is said there are not enough qualified voters at present in the town to offer it.

RECORD IS WORST FOE OF POLITICIANS

Opponents Always Dig Up All Past Performances.

NONE HAS CLEAN SLATE.

Impossible For a Man of Presidential Caliber to Support Every "ism" That Comes Prominently Before the People—"Whenever You See a Head, Hit
It," Is the Slogan.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, Feb. 28.—[Special.]—It is a serious thing for an embryo politician to have a record, particularly if he is a candidate or a possibility for the presidential nomination.

The record of every man who has been mentioned has been carefully searched to find out how he voted on this or that subject, whether he was conservative or progressive, whether for or against the railroads, whether for or against the corporations, whether he was right on labor questions, immigration, woman suffrage, prohibition and, in fact, all the many vexed questions which have not yet been settled.

The fellows who have criticised these records to be made are ready to spring them at the opportune time and possibly defeat the aspirations of different men who hope to carry off the presidential nomination.

An Unfortunate Feature.

The pulling of a man's record is an unfortunate feature of politics, because it encourages demagoguery. It makes men support those things in which they do not believe. The wily politician, if he hopes for future honors, will have a record showing that he has supported every "ism" ever proposed.

It stands to reason that no man could have supported all the various propositions put forward by the powerful organizations that have votes behind them, and have retained enough stamina and self respect to be president of the United States.

"See a Head, Hit It."

There is an old story of the Donkeybrook fair, in which the new Irishman was advised, "Whenever you see a head, hit it," which applies to political conditions. The idea seems to be that as soon as one man gets his head up and begins to struggle to get his shoulders above the rank of candidates there are a lot of fellows who are ready to throw bricks or bring blackthorn shillings into play. The presidential candidate who escapes is fortunate.

Greatest Indian War.

It is a curious fact that none of the histories, none of the records and, in fact, no writers ever more than refer to the greatest Indian war the country has ever known, when grouping the wars of the United States. Congressman Miller of Minnesota in a recent speech in the house said:

"From the time the pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth and the first colony at Jamestown until the present time the greatest Indian uprising, with the most awful extent of mortality that has ever occurred, took place in 1823 on the plains of Minnesota and Dakota."

He then went on to describe some of the horrors of that Indian war, told how it was fought by the strongest and most warlike nation of Indians that ever lived in America, the Sioux.

Angry When Opposed.

Minority Leader Mann often says kindly things about his fellow members and appreciative remarks about those who leave the house, but when a man opposes and irritates him he becomes angry. Mann and Murray (California Bill of Oklahoma) had a controversy in the house, and the dispute became quite animated.

"The gentleman from Illinois is quibbling," said Murray.

A moment later Murray again sought to interrupt the minority leader.

"If the gentleman has a sensible remark to make, which would be unusual, I will yield to him," was Mann's irate reply.

Applied to many members it would be all right, but Murray rarely makes anything but sensible remarks.

Contested Legislation.

Congress is dealing with a large amount of bitterly contested legislation this winter. The conservation bills, which include a great deal more than the word implies, have been pushed forward, although strong opposition has developed. Opposed by the conservationists is the dam and power bill which has taken much time in the senate. In fact, there seems to be the possibility of a deadlock on all such measures.

In congress, the house favoring the general scheme of the conservationists and the senate inclined to be more in accord with western men who want the states to control in the matter of water and power development.

Took a Bold Stand.

Congressman James of Michigan took a bold stand in the house on the bill to pension the widows and children of soldiers who served in the Spanish war. He was a state volunteer and served in Cuba, but he asserted that the proposed pension was altogether too liberal and in time would cost the government $50,000,000 a year. He said that the people of his state and the soldiers of the Spanish war particularly were not for the bill.

DOROTHY D. BREAM

Dorothy Diehl Bream died at one o'clock Sunday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford C. Bream, East Middle street, after a week's illness from diphtheria, aged 13 years.

The little girl had a host of friends and their affection for her manifested itself most clearly in their solicitude during her illness, and in their genuine personal grief when they learned of her death.

She was unusually bright and was the youngest child in the Gettysburg High School where she was a member of the Freshman class. As one of the medal winners in the temperance oratorical held recently, she helped to form the County Contest Club. She was of a most lovable disposition and her death cast a gloom over a wide circle of friends.

She leaves her parents, one sister and three brothers, Anna M., Clifford Jr., Donovan Diehl, and Jere Bream, all younger than she.

The funeral was held at 4:30 Sunday afternoon with interment in Evergreen cemetery, conducted by Rev. J. B. Baker.

When Napoleon Was Wounded.

Napoleon, like almost all great military leaders, was wounded in course of his military career, though once only. This was before Waterloo, on April 23, 1809. He was struck by a grape shot ball, and received a flesh wound which disconcerted him so little that he mounted his horse, wiping away the blood with a handkerchief. The ball was picked up by an officer, who treasured it so highly that it passed as an heirloom to his children and grandchildren. It now rests in the Musee at Paris.

Helpfulness.

"We should always try to be helpful and sympathetic," said Professor Pate. "As ships meet at sea a moment, when greetings are exchanged, and then go away on the deep, so men meet in this world. Then pause in your passing long enough to tell the other fellow about your rheumatism or show him how idiotic his pet theory is, and then go on your way before he can give you the details of his dyspepsia or refute your imbecile arguments."—Kansas City Star.

Kew's Nameless Tree.

Kew gardens has its mystery in the form of a tree which no one yet has been able to name. It is not far from the entrance from Kew Green, and a tablet confesses the inability of the learned men at Kew correctly to place it in the botanical system. It is some thing like a plane tree, but it is not a plane tree. It is, or was as late as last summer, when the present writer saw it, simply "a tree." Can any reader solve the mystery and restore it to its lost family?—London Chronicle.

MINE SINKS BIG BRITISH STEAMER

The Maloja Goes Down Two Miles Off Dover.

RESCUE SHIP ALSO SUNK

Liner Carried a Crew of 300 and Had 140 Passengers Aboard—At Least Twenty-five Lives Lost.

London, Feb. 28.—At least twenty-five lives were lost when the palatial steamship Maloja, of the Peninsular and Oriental line, was blown by a mine two miles off Dover, according to an Exchange Telegraph company despatch received here.

The Maloja carried 140 passengers and a crew of about 300. She was bound from London to Bombay. The steamship Empress, of Fort William, while attempting to rescue survivors from the Maloja also struck a mine and sank half an hour later. It is understood her crew was saved.

Full details of the disaster have not been received, but fears are entertained here that the loss of life will be considerable.

Within a few minutes after the blast, P. and O. steamship was known to be in distress, rescue craft of all sorts put out to her aid. Despatches from Dover received by Lloyd's agency say that this rescue fleet includes vessels of all descriptions, even to warships and launches.

The Maloja was one of the newest vessels of the company, of 12,500 tons gross and of the same line who owned the steamship Persia, torpedoed off the island of Crete, on December 30, with the loss of 336 persons out of 450 on board.

Since the beginning of the war no passenger lists have been published in England of British vessels leaving or approaching her shores. The Maloja, it is feared, had a large number of passengers aboard, the passenger traffic between Australia and the various ports of call on the voyage being fairly heavy.

The Maloja was 504 feet in length and 34.4 feet in depth. She was built five years ago and had twin screws and three decks.

When the Persia was sunk there were two Americans among her passengers, Robert N. McNeely, American consul to Aden, and Charles H. Grant, of Boston. Mr. Grant was saved, but McNeely was among those who perished.

Following the sinking of the Persia the United States instructed its consular agents to procure all information possible from the few survivors.

Berlin denied that a German submarine made the attack, Vienna making a similar denial. Later the question was raised whether a submarine flying the Turkish flag was responsible.

SHOT MAN THROUGH WINDOW

Unknown Would-Be Assassin Attacks Victim in His Home.

Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 28.—An attempt was made to assassinate George Wasson, of Little Georgetown, as he was sitting on a couch near a window at his home conversing with Harry Fankwell, Joseph Dugan and Miss Palmer, the housekeeper.

The would-be assassin fired a shot, part of the lead entering Wasson's face, neck and arms. The window sash was blown into bits and shattered glass struck Miss Palmer on the head, inflicting lacerations. Dr. Erie thinks Wasson will recover.

BABIES PERISH IN FLAMES

Brother, Only a Little Older, is Barely Rescued.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 28.—Mary and Anna Vankosky, aged a year and a half and six months, respectively, were burned to death when the home of their parents at Jermyu was destroyed.

John, aged six, narrowly escaped the same fate, but was rescued by firemen.

The mother had gone to a nearby store, and the building is believed to have caught fire from an overheated chimney.

Two Killed in Railroad Wreck.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 28.—Two men were killed and another injured, at New Milford, in the first accident on the Lackawanna's new cut-off line. The dead are John Cronin, engineer, and Rolland Eveland, fireman. The train, comprising forty-five freight cars, took the siding at New Milford and ran through the derail.

Prize for First Robin.

New York, Feb. 28.—The "first robin" is to be officially reported. The advance agents of springtime has no set schedule, bird experts say, and his arrival may be expected at different dates. For observation purposes, the National Association of Audubon societies is offering a prize for "first robin" reports.

Blizzard Rages at Corry.

Corry, Pa., Feb. 28.—A terrific blizzard has raged without a moment's let-up. Country roads are drifted full, trolley lines blocked, and steam roads badly behind time. Wires are reported down in all directions. It is the worst storm in years.

PENNA. SETS RECORD

Superdreadnaught Exceeds Contract Mark in Speed Trials.

Rockland, Me., Feb. 28.—A speed trial of three-quarters of a knot in excess of contract requirements was attained by the superdreadnaught Pennsylvania, when she was pushed on the fastest mile of her standardization tests at the rate of 21.75 knots an hour.

Eleven runs were made to complete the tests halted by thick weather last Thursday.

The average for five high speed runs was 21.38 knots per hour. Three runs each were made at nineteen and twenty-one knots. In her record spurt the big ship, which has been hailed by American naval officers as the newest and most powerful fighter afloat, was driven by her propellers at the rate of 216.4 revolutions a minute. In making her contract speed of twenty-one knots, 216 revolutions a minute were necessary.

BILLY TALKS TO BIG CROWDS IN BALTIMORE

16,000 or Over Attended Each Service.

Baltimore, Feb. 28.—In screaming defiance of the devil, hell and all the powers of evil, Billy Sunday threw down the gauntlet to sin at the very outset of his campaign here yesterday morning.

Climbing upon a chair, just back of his table, he roared and blazed at his enemies, daring them to come on, while the 16,000 souls before him in the tabernacle rose and cheered.

To an even larger crowd at the afternoon services, he reiterated his boast of fearlessness, proclaimed his intention of putting sin in the hospital before the Fourth of July, handling the rum interests the hot end of a poker, and cleaning up generally.

Attacking what he called the degradation of high society before the great throng at the night meeting, he preached the most thrilling and the most exciting sermon of the day.

With a characteristic bang, Billy, always one to start things, has started things in Baltimore. The greatest evangelistic campaign this city has ever witnessed at last is under way. The months of preparation have been well spent, for now that he is here, his great organization is perfected and completed and from now on Sunday will be at the disposal of Baltimore hammer and tongs.

If he keeps the pace set for himself, and those who are close to say he will surpass his first efforts, there unquestionably will be an army of traitors when he calls for converts later in the campaign.

SAVE PRIEST FROM A MOB

State Police Act Upon an Order From the Court.

Pottsville, Pa., Feb. 28.—An angry mob of Greeks pursued Rev. Joseph Pelocovich, of Minersville, at Forestville, and threatened to take his life. Judge Brummi ordered state police on the scene, and they succeeded in rescuing the priest from his dangerous situation and bringing him back to Minersville.

A score of warrants have been sworn out for persons implicated in the plot to kill Father Pelocovich. The latter was recently declared the legal pastor of St. Nicholas' Greek Catholic church at Minersville, after long litigation, and his life has since been constantly threatened.

DECOY WOMAN FROM LOOT

Whole Truck Loads From a Store Hidden in a Barn.

Hazleton, Pa., Feb. 28.—Officers seeking $300 worth of stolen goods here outwitted an alien woman who for five hours stood guard over a barn door and leaned against it.

Decoying her, they had their trucks backed against the doorway when she returned and were loading up cases of shirts, stockings, shoes and ties, claimed by N. Suravitz & Son, of Scranton. The firm had sold them to John Tawell, a local merchant, who claimed his store had been robbed.

Buried in Caving Ash Bank.

Mahoning City, Pa., Feb. 28.—David Jenkins, an engineer, and William Schwartz, an ashman, disappeared into the depths of a Primrose mine underneath tons of ashes here and both are believed to be dead. They were swallowed by a cave-in, which engulfed the greater portion of an ash bank, upon whose top the two men were working. Two hundred men are trying to reach the men, but they are buried deeply, and may not be recovered for days.

18 POUNDS OF BLOOD

is the average quantity in a healthy adult, but it is the quality of the blood that determines our strength to resist sickness.

With weak blood we find cold hands and chilly feet; in children an aversion to study, and in adults rheumatic tendencies.

In changing seasons get abundant fresh air and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals, because Scott's Emulsion is a rich blood-food that will increase both quantity and quality of the blood while it warms the body and helps carry off the impurities.

When multitudes of people are today taking Scott's Emulsion to avert winter sickness, and are giving it to their children, it is careless to neglect its benefits. Look out for substitutes. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-28

Artificial Sausage Skins.

A German butcher has recently patented in this country a process for making artificial sausage skins from fibers of animal sinews. According to the inventor these fibers, which may be purchased very cheaply from abattoirs, may be cleaned more thoroughly than the intestinal skin. The sinews are digestible, and it will do no harm if pieces of the skin are swallowed.—Popular Science Monthly.

HEED THE WARNING

Many Gettysburg People Have Done So.

When the kidneys are weak they give unmistakable warnings that should not be ignored. By examining the urine and treating the kidneys upon the first sign of disorder, many days of suffering may be saved. Weak kidneys usually expel a dark, ill-smelling urine, full of "brickdust," sediment and painful passages. Sleepless nights often cause a dull pain in the small of the back, headaches, dizzy spells, tired, languid feelings and frequent rheumatic twinges.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for the kidneys only. There is no better recommended remedy.

Gettysburg people endorse Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Annie Flaharty, 311 Washington St., Gettysburg, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills during the past several years and am willing to tell of my experience for the benefit of other kidney sufferers. I had weak kidneys for a long time and was also subject to headaches and backaches. Doan's Kidney Pills have removed all these troubles. There is no better remedy for the kidneys."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Flaharty had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

If Hair Is Turning Gray, Use Sage Tea

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked and looks dry, wispy and scraggy, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant.
